GOOD SOUND AMERICANISM

In an address to a great audience in New York General Pershing said that "we have no quarrel with the American of foreign birth, but we do object to the foreign-born citizen who attempts to decide an American question for a foreign reason."

That puts the case in a nutshell and General Pershing said he referred to every foreign-born person "whether he be of German lineage and purposes to determine an American policy because of German prejudice, or whether he be Irish, Italian, Hungarian or Russian." The general said he bitterly resented the abuses of American citizenship or residence for the purpose of political or warlike propaganda in foreign countries.

The occasion of the address was a great gathering of real Americans in New York, which is virtually a foreign city, in which heterogeneous races and nationalities carry on their fights with each other and their respective propagandas with utter indifference to the interests or feelings of the people whose hospitality they abuse.

And if they do not soon and completely stop it there is a danger of a recurrence of the bad feeling aroused in the past. And that would be grossly unjust to those who, or whose ancestors, came to us by the love of American ideals and American opportunities and in good faith transferred their allegiance and their love to their new home. And of those many fought under our flag in the great war, and died as heartily as the American of oldest American ancestry the miserable hyphenates who are making life unendurable by their discordant yells. TROUBLE MAKERS

"Every idle freight car in the United States is figuratively loaded with economic trouble for the country," is the terse way in which a New York railroad official puts it, in discussing the industrial situation as it affects transportation lines.

Figures given out by railroads indicate that the total of idle freight cars will approximate 475,000 on April 1, which will exceed the high water mark of March, 1919, due to the temporary after-armistice lull in business. Every one of these idle cars is an industrial and business liability. Here is the answer to the question why the railroads are reducing their operating forces in such a drastic manner and why they are seeking reductions in the costs of operation in other ways. Only cars that are loaded and moving are of any value to the roads as revenue producers.

Only one thing can place these freight cars into service again and give employment to more than 300,000 men who have lost their jobs temporarily—resumption of industrial operations on a large scale and the movement of crops. There are no ideal conditions in transportation. When industry has more nearly resumed normal operations the railroads will probably be taxed to the utmost to meet the demands made upon them. This has been the experience in other periods, and there is reason to believe that it will be repeated before the first half of the year is gone.

CURSES, PLAIN AND FANCY

It is a funny thing that folks should be irritated when other people call them names. It is so easy to insult the average man or woman that it is a wonder anyone takes the trouble to do it.

Think of the expression, "you poor fellow," for instance. What does it mean? An answer is really hard to find, and yet it cannot be denied that pronounced in the scornful, rebuking way that the epithet suggests, it will make almost anyone fight. Various countries have various terms of affection as "crab" and "oyster." But let him go so far as to call the other a "poor little old cow" and he is in for a hot fight or a duel.

In the southern portion of the Appennine peninsula the remark, "May an accident befall you!" is only a friendly way of passing the time of day. But expression of the hope "may you be carried home in four pieces" is due cause for a riot on the spot. There are many ways, the

MAY EXCHANGE MOVIE STARS

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, March 22.—Moving picture producers of Germany and the United States are trying to reach an agreement for exchange of star actors and actresses who have won some favor in both countries, so that import and export duties on films would be avoided. German producers are particularly anxious to negotiate such an agreement in view of the great popularity of American films throughout Germany.
